

AUSTIN STREET RAILWAY CO. IN THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER

Judge West, of the U. S. Court Placed the Property In the Hands of Receiver—Expenses More Than the Receipts

(Special to the Eagle) Austin, Texas, March 30.—Judge Duval West, United States district judge, entered an order today granting a receivership of the properties and business of the Austin Street Railway Company on application of the Rochester Trust Company of Rochester, New York. William J. Jones, president and general manager of the company, was made receiver. Application of the appointment of receiver alleges in substance that company is indebted $786,000 due and unpaid on its first mortgage bonds. Among other details it holds that the company is unable to pay debts now due and those soon to be due and that its financial operations are greatly embarrassed. Some months ago to meet an increase in wages demanded by the employees the railway company increased its fare from 5 to 7 cents and the receipts began to decrease. The expenses have exceeded the receipts of the company.

ROAD WORK UNDER NEW BRAZOS COUNTY ROAD LAW SUCCESS

County Commissioner Geo. P. Edge was in town Wednesday and reports that under the new Brazos County Road Law passed by the recent Legislature and signed by Governor Neff some good work is being done on the roads. The Bryan-Macy road is being completed from Wixon Creek to Zack and the work will be pushed to Edge. The road was graded in the low places and culverts were put in. About four miles of the road has already been completed, Commissioner Edge says. The practical working of the new road allows the people to do the work with their teams. Brazos county has spent about $60 on this road improvement which under the former method would have cost the county about $2,000 for two road sections. Commissioner Edge was assisted by Road Overseers Joe Lauck and Ned McQuirter, as the work was done in their sections. The work will begin Thursday in Cyrus Kootz's section of road as the hands have already been summoned. Commissioner Edge is very active in the work as he wishes to arouse public interest in the need of good roads by practical demonstration in Brazos county and is ready to co-operate with all citizens in his precinct for the improvement of the roads on the co-operative plan of the county aiding the citizens wherever possible.

CARRANZA OFFICER IS ARRESTED AT LAREDO

(By Associated Press) Laredo, Mar. 30.—General Humberto Barros, a former Carranza officer, was arrested here today by United States customs inspector for alleged illegal entry in the United States and is being held awaiting instructions from Washington regarding deportation.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE GROWERS ARE LOSERS

(Special to the Eagle) Dallas, Texas, March 30.—John Sneed, staff correspondent of the Dallas News, in reporting the emergency freight rate hearing at Dallas before members of the Interstate Commerce Commission held last Monday heads the article: "Nobody Makes Any Money Now. Rate Hearing Develops That Fruit and Truck Cannot Pay High Rates. Railroads Cannot Reduce Freight Rates." There is the situation as raised by the fruit and truck growers in Texas. It is evident the war-time operation of the railroads has destroyed the efficiency of the railroad business. Salaries of officials and workers have been doubled; 288,000 men have been added to the pay rolls on shorter hours and rates have practically been doubled on passengers and freight operations. The fruit and growers are in dire need. The News report says: "Cone Johnson of Tyler, representing East Texas growers at the session put it in this way: 'If the industry in Texas which the railways encouraged and built up is throttled the roads would not have any more of this class of freight to haul.' Mr. Johnson then called on the representatives of the carriers to heed the appeal of the growers for a voluntary reduction, but subsequently was told by the carriers that the roads were not earning operating expenses and were in no position to grant any rate concessions. 'We are all in the same boat,' said one of the railroad traffic men. 'We can not run trains and serve the public on less gross revenues than we are receiving.' It is evident that the whole country is wrecking with waste extravagance and inefficiency and that the farmer, stockman and fruit grower cannot bear the burdens. Very often the consumer in the cities are charged more for one tomato, peach or watermelon than the grower receives for a whole crate, or even a carload net. The same is true of eggs and butter. The charges are too high at one end and too low at the other. S. W. Adams of San Augustine told the conference that one car of tomatoes sold in Buffalo brought $412.50, or a net loss of $50 to the shipper. After that fifteen cars on hand were not shipped. Nineteen cars previously sold brought a small profit. After the producer had taken his loss the tomatoes were sold in the hotels and cafes for about $6,000 and more than 100 per cent was made by every person that handled them. The railroads received about $460 freight. There is more inefficiency in the railroad business than ever known and salaries and expenses are double what they were four years ago. There are millions of men in the railroad and produce business who are performing no service except to draw their salaries and their breaths hence the farmer, stockman, fruit and vegetable growers are being forced to sell their products at less than cost.

THINGS A FEDERAL COURT JUROR SEES WHILE IN HOUSTON

(Editor Ben F. Harigel in La Grange Journal)

Still on the same job down here at Houston, looking wise as justice is meted out to the offenders of the law, and wondering why there are so many youngsters engaged in the violation. Liquor cases—bootlegging are in the majority, and included in this, are cases where farmers have made the "moonshine." To give in detail, or in substance, some of the cases would require too much space. It is a source of much regret to me to know that men will permit themselves to be yanked into court on such violation. One old man, past eighty years, entered his plea of guilty. As he walked up to the witness chair he gave full evidence of his weight of years, and accepted his fine in good grace. Vendors of narcotics were also ready to enter their plea of guilty. There was enough morphine on display to keep LaGrange drug stores supplied for an indefinite time.

And while the United States courts are busy, the courts are also; if it is a variety in this line that one is seeking, he can find it here. There are many other things to be seen in Houston. Among this latter mentioned, are men who have been laid off for a few weeks, some awaiting the welcome words, "Report for work," others engaged in looking for employment in another direction. The float-sam and jetsam population is here in large numbers, and they are all dressed well, and appear to be well satisfied.

Home boys, which means those who come from Fayette county are many. You can find them in some of the offices of the corporations, at the manufacturing plants and in the wholesale houses. They have dropped right in to the habits of the city, and appear to be as much noticed as the balance of the people, which means, very little. The line-up for the pay envelope on Monday, Tuesday or Saturday is a vital thing with them, and they use it, the pay I mean, to keep in with the push.

One who loves the small town, and prefers it to the city, as is the case with myself, wonders why the lure of the city can be so effective. One week is amply sufficient, but not so with others who now say openly: "I would never live in a small town again." I sat on the front porch the other day and watched the flock of humans as they passed, in either direction. They were all dolled up in cars, and the atmosphere smelled like a refinery. Traffic of business was a close second to that of pleasure, and in the midst of it all came the noise of the fire cart as it chased through the throng to a small blaze. Hardly had that died out when the ambulance, given clear road rushed by and returned with an unfortunate who had fallen down an elevator shaft. And this is but one hour's summary, the scene changes very little each day. You can, they say, soon ignore it all and become citified, which means that it's a case of "every man for himself."

OLD CREEK INDIAN BURYING GROUNDS ARE FAST DISAPPEARING

(By Associated Press) Okmulgee, Okla., March 30.—Enraving civilization is crowding out the old Creek burial grounds in the northeast part of the city—a spot that contains the remains of many of the famous old chiefs that roamed the prairies of the Indian territory before civilization lent its advances to the trades that are now pushing it into the background. The hum drum of pneumatic riveting machines and the roar of speeding trains is breaking the sacred silence that attends the burial place of these ancient chiefs and tribesmen of a once powerful nation. Shadows of tanks and towers play over the tumbled and broken stones that were once monuments to the achievements of noted Creek leaders.

The cemetery, now located near the oil refineries of Okmulgee, in years gone by was the national burial grounds of the Creek tribe. In those days the cemetery was watched over and cared for as are the larger burial plots of the country today. But now the burial ground is becoming obliterated; the tombstones and markings are broken and scattered.

Scores of the graves are unmarked, and many of them have been lost in the shuffle of time. The old wooden coverings are decayed and fallen, the larger stone boxes, which in some cases were used as caskets, being the only tablets of their kind to withstand the waste of years.

Little or no attempt is being made to preserve the burying ground. A fence was once erected around the plot, but today it has fallen like dozens of the monuments, and horses and cows graze over and around the graves. On some of the stones the names of the dead are clearly marked while from others weather and time has practically erased the names once carefully cut thereon. On top of the hand wrought stone boxes which still are intact are curiously carved designs of flowers and animals. The trees in the burial park are upturning many of the markers.

Old tribesmen look upon the passing of the Creek burial ground as keeping pace with the slowly dwindling Creek nation—the two fading out together as the most historical landmarks of an ancient and powerful race.

(By Associated Press) Edmonton, Canada, March 30.—One of the longest pigeon flights on record will be attempted from Edmonton to San Antonio, Texas, June 20, it is announced here. Arrangements for the flight have been made between the Edmonton Homing club and the San Antonio Homing club. The distance is 2,000 miles. Between 30 and 50 homing pigeons will be shipped from San Antonio and liberated here by W. Lees, president of the Edmonton Homing club.

A CALAMITY

Railroad Commissioner Gilmore states correctly the alternative facing the railroads which haul Texas food products to market. It is either reduce rates and have some freight to haul or keep the rates high and have nothing to haul. At present levels, the producers will be driven from the field. Since the situation has veered around to this point, it ought not to be hard for the transportation agencies to decide which they will do.—Houston Post.

The Post and others might have added that the over head expenses and inefficiency of railroads from top to bottom are unexcusably confiscatory and without reason or justification. It takes some courage to declare this truth but there are too many persons connected with the railroads who are performing no service and adding only to the burdens of the ultimate consumer. Thousands of those employed are unnecessary and are not performing any service. The extravaganzas of the war have wrecked the commerce and business of the country and the trouble is the average person does not see the issues. There are many thousands being paid for something they are not doing and if continued there will be no real business in the country in a very short time.

Daniel the district Attorney. The first mentioned has gone to his reward and men are reminded of his connection with this court as they glance over to the walls above the bench and see the painted portrait of the able jurist and citizen.

WHEELER-BAIN WEDDING ANNOUNCED

The following wedding announcement which appeared in the Houston Chronicle of Tuesday will be read in Bryan with much interest by the many friends here. Miss Winifred Bain, the bride-to-be is a grand daughter of Mrs. M. J. Parker and visits here quite frequently and by her charming personality has made many friends who extend good wishes on this happy occasion.

"Mrs. S. J. Bain entertained at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Country Club with a beautifully appointed luncheon, complimenting her daughter, Miss Winifred Bain, which proved the occasion for making known an interesting secret.

"The luncheon table was charming in a motif of pink, which was woven with artistic effect through all details. A center arrangement of exotiques Killarney roses and sweet peas, clustered in a silver basket, had streamers of soft blue ribbon extending to the ends of the board, while a shower of smaller delicate hued ribbons and sweet peas, fell from the basket in halo formation, making a rarely beautiful center adornment.

"A corsage bouquet of pink sweet peas was placed at each cover, within the lovely favor was hidden a card bearing this message: 'Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Bain announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Winifred, to Samuel Henry Wheeler. The wedding will be an event of springtime.'

"The news thus told is of unusual interest, Miss Bain being a prominent society girl and a debutante of last year. Mr. Wheeler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wheeler of Waterbury, Conn., but has made his home in this city for several years. The approaching wedding will from the inspiration for many delightful affairs, arranged in honor of the charming bride-to-be."

CRUCIFIED AS A TRIBUTE TO HOLY WEEK IN NEW MEXICO

Brothers of Light Celebrating Holy Week Gave the Crucifixion Ceremonies and Men Were Tied To Huge Wooden Crosses

(By Associated Press) Albuquerque, N. M., March 30.—Two men were crucified at Penitente, village of Abiquiu in northern New Mexico on Good Friday in observance of Holy Week in rites performed by members of Hermanos de Luz, Brothers of Light, a religious order according to P. J. Nordfeldt, artist of Santa Fe, N. M., who arrived here. Nordfeldt said he was a member of the party of two dozen tourists who witnessed the crucifixion and flagellation ceremonies connected with it. The artist said the two human sacrifices were tied to huge wooden crosses longer than two hours and when taken down were bleeding and exhausted. The condition of the men is said to be serious and their recovery doubted. Penitentes as members of the order are known, are Indians with Mexican admixture. The order has many followers in the remote villages of this state it is understood.

Secretary Eberstadt at the request of Mrs. S. C. Hoyle, president of the Bryan Woman's Club extended an invitation to the Board of Directors to attend the Style Show at the Elks hall on Thursday evening, March 31st stating that the funds derived from this entertainment will be used for the purchase of a lot upon which the Woman's Club expects to build a permanent home. The invitation was unanimously accepted.

Chairman J. D. Martin of the Agricultural Committee asked for further time on a report for the potato curing plant building proposition which was granted.

There were no reports from the Chairman of the City Development, Educational, Trade Extension, Legislative, Entertainment, Highway Committees.

Secretary Eberstadt reported one new member for the Finance and Membership committee: W. B. Cook of College.

In absence of Chairman Jno. M. Lawrence of the special committee on the College telephone matter, Major L. L. McInnis reported the auditors were at work on the Bryan Telephone Company's books and as soon as their report was available a meeting of all interested parties would be held and a satisfactory adjustment of the differences between College and the Telephone Company was hoped for.

R. S. Webb Sr., brought up the question of the water pressure at fires in Bryan stating that it was quite awhile after the alarm was turned in at the fire on Monday morning before the pressure came on. The question was discussed generally and it developed that the pressure was turned on as soon as the alarm was received at the power house which was 17 minutes after the fire was discovered. City Manager E. E. McAdams went to the power house in person at 2:57 a.m. and remained until 7 o'clock. It also developed that the high pressure pumps cannot be turned on until all preparations are made or there would be damage to the mains. Another matter that developed was that of all the water that was used during the fire only reduced the water in the supply well one foot and it was further stated that if the new pump had been in Bryan would have extinguished the fire and saved many thousand dollars worth of property. The new pump furnishes its own power.

AUSTIN STREET RAILWAY CO. IN THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER

Judge West, of the U. S. Court Placed the Property In the Hands of Receiver—Expenses More Than the Receipts

(Special to the Eagle)
Austin, Texas, March 30.—Judge Duval West, United States district judge, entered an order today granting a receivership of the properties and business of the Austin Street Railway Company on application of the Rochester Trust Company of Rochester, New York. William J. Jones, president and general manager of the company, was made receiver. Application of the appointment of receiver alleges in substance that company is indebted $786,000 due and unpaid on its first mortgage bonds. Some months ago to meet an increase in wages demanded by the employees the railway company increased its fare from 5 to 7 cents and the receipts began to decrease. The expenses have exceeded the receipts of the company.

The float-sam and jettam population is here in large numbers, and they are all dressed well, and appear to be well satisfied.

Home boys, which means those who come from Fayette county are many. You can find them in some of the offices of the corporations, and in the manufacturing plants and in the wholesale houses. They have dropped right into the habits of the city, and appear to be as much noticed as the balance of the people, which means, very little. The line-up for the pay envelope on Monday, Tuesday or Saturday is a vital thing with them, and they use it, the pay I mean, to keep in with the push.

One who loves the small town, and prefers it to the city, as is the case with myself, wonders why the lure of the city can be so effective. One week is amply sufficient, but not so with others who now say openly: "I would never live in a small town again." I sat on the front porch the other day and watched the flock of humans as they passed, in either direction. They were all dolled up in cars, and the atmosphere smelled like a refinery. Traffic of business was a close second to that of pleasure, and in the midst of it all came the noise of the fire cart as it chased through the throng to a small blaze. Hardly had that died out when the ambulance, given clear road rushed by and returned with an unfortunate who had fallen down an elevator shaft. And this is but one hour's summary, the scene changes very little each day. You can, they say, soon ignore it all and become citified, which means that it's a case of "every man for himself." While tears are shed at one section of the city, suffering is prevalent at another, the entertainments go right on, it can't be otherwise.

We Fayette county four serving Uncle Sam as jurors this week are Frank McOlellan of Ledbetter, Frank Rauch of Walhalla, J. W. Ivy of Muldon and myself. The three have not informed me that they had any notion of remaining, to the contrary they are awaiting the time when the jury vouchers are to be paid. They are making good jurors, and are getting out of the opportunity the best there is, but the little cottage and farm home is worth more than city life. They made no offer to be excused, but come right up before the judge to serve their country.

At the fire station one of the boys showed us to the remnant of a fire cart which was carrying the chief and officers to the fire, a week previous. The cart—or auto—was wrecked while en route, the front wheels were mashed, splintered and scattered, and the cart turned over twice, yet the occupants escaped without injury. It was another one of those peculiar cases which make the understanding of escape from injury, impossible.

While the most of you have read of some of the divorce, scandal and other events of a city like Houston, it would not be very good reading to take up space with matter of that nature here. Yet you find so many cases here that excite pity. Tuesday night the officers at the police station found a youngster, about eight years old, trying to sleep at the corner of the station. They took him in, placed him in a bed and he went to sleep with the remark that the police were fine sports. The poor fellow wasn't wanted, evidently; father and mother had agreed to disagree and were divorced, mother left him with the father, and he was very much too much in the latter's way, or an obstacle to father's efforts to get another plaything. And this is but one of many unnecessary events which come to pass.

To me the room of the federal district, is not as it was when similar duty was mine in 1912. I mean not to reflect upon the able and learned men now in charge, but that I miss the old friend who formerly presided, Judge Waller T. Burns, and Lock Mc-

A CALAMITY

Railroad Commissioner Gilmore states correctly the alternative facing the railroads which haul Texas food products to market. It is either reduce rates and have some freight to haul or keep the rates high and have nothing to haul. At present levels, the producers will be driven from the field. Since the situation has veered around to this point, it ought not to be hard for the transportation agencies to decide which they will do.—Houston Post.

The Post and others might have added that the over head expenses and inefficiency of railroads from top to bottom are unexcusably confiscatory and without reason or justification. It takes some courage to declare this truth but there are too many persons connected with the railroads who are performing no service and adding only to the burdens of the ultimate consumer. Thousands of those employed are unneeded and are not performing any service. The extravaganzas of the war have wrecked the commerce and business of the country and the trouble is the average person does not see the issues. There are many thousands being paid for something they are not doing and if continued there will be no real business in the country in a very short time.

Daniel the district attorney. The first mentioned has gone to his reward and men are reminded of his connection with this court as they glance over to the walls above the bench and see the painted portrait of the able jurist and citizen.

OLD CREEK INDIAN BURYING GROUNDS ARE FAST DISAPPEARING

(By Associated Press)
Okmulgee, Okla., March 30.—En-roaching civilization is crowding out the old Creek burial grounds in the northeast part of the city—a spot that contains the remains of many of the famous old chiefs that roamed the prairies of the Indian territory before civilization lent its advances to the trades that are now pushing it into the background. The hum drum of pneumatic riveting machines and the roar of speeding trains is breaking the sacred silence that attends the burial place of these ancient chiefs and tribesmen of a once powerful nation. Shadows of tanks and towers play over the tumbled and broken stones that were once monuments to the achievements of noted Creek leaders.

The cemetery, now located near the oil refineries of Okmulgee, in years gone by was the national burial ground of the Creek tribe. In those days the cemetery was watched over and cared for as are the larger burial plots of the country today. But now the burial ground is becoming obliterated; the tombstones and markings are broken and scattered.

Scores of the graves are unmarked, and many of them have been lost in the shuffle of time. The old wood coverings are decayed and fallen, the larger stone boxes, which in some cases were used as caskets, being the only tablets of their kind to withstand the waste of years.

Little or no attempt is being made to preserve the burying ground. A fence was once erected around the plot, but today it has fallen like dozens of the monuments, and horses and cows graze over and around the graves. On some of the stones the names of the dead are clearly marked while from others weather and time has practically erased the names once carefully cut thereon. On top of the hand wrought stone boxes which still are intact are curiously carved designs of flowers and animals. The trees in the burial park are upturning many of the markers.

Old tribesmen look upon the passing of the Creek burial ground as keeping pace with the slowly dwindling Creek nation—the two fading out together as the most historical landmarks of an ancient and powerful race.

WHEELER-BAIN WEDDING ANNOUNCED

The following wedding announcement which appeared in the Houston Chronicle of Tuesday will be read in Bryan with much interest by the many friends here. Miss Winifred Bain, the bride-to-be is a grand daughter of Mrs. M. J. Parker and visits here quite frequently and by her charming personality has made many friends who extend good wishes on this happy occasion.

"Mrs. S. J. Bain entertained at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Country Club with a beautifully appointed luncheon, complimenting her daughter, Miss Winifred Bain, which proved the occasion for making known an interesting secret."

"The luncheon table was charming in a motif of pink, which was woven with artistic effect through all details. A center arrangement of exquisite Killarney roses and sweet peas, clustered in a silver basket, had streamers of soft blue ribbon extending to the ends of the board, while a shower of smaller delicate hues ribbons and sweet peas, fell from the basket in halo formation, making a rarely beautiful center adornment."

"A corsage bouquet of pink sweet peas was placed at each cover, within the lovely favor was hidden a card bearing this message: 'Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Bain announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Winifred, to Samuel Henry Wheeler. The wedding will be an event of springtime.'"

"The news thus told is of unusual interest, Miss Bain being a prominent society girl and a debutante of last year. Mr. Wheeler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wheeler of Waterbury, Conn., but has made his home in this city for several years. The approaching wedding will from the inspiration for many delightful affairs, arranged in honor of the charming bride-to-be."

CRUCIFIED AS A TRIBUTE TO HOLY WEEK IN NEW MEXICO

Brothers of Light Celebrating Holy Week Gave the Crucifixion Ceremonies and Men Were Tied To Huge Wooden Crosses

(By Associated Press)
Albuquerque, N. M., March 30.—Two men were crucified at Penitente, village of Abiquiu in northern New Mexico on Good Friday in observance of Holy Week in rites performed by members of Hermanos de Luz, Brothers of Light, a religious order according to P. J. Nordfeldt, artist of Santa Fe, N. M., who arrived here. Nordfeldt said he was a member of the party of two dozen tourists who witnessed the crucifixion and flagellation ceremonies connected with it. The artist said the two human sacrifices were tied to huge wooden crosses longer than two hours and when taken down were bleeding and exhausted. The condition of the men is said to be serious and their recovery doubted. Penitentes as members of the order are known, are Indians with Mexican admixture. The order has many followers in the remote villages of this state it is understood.

COLLEGE TELEPHONE AND WATER PRESSURE QUESTIONS DISCUSSED

The board of directors of the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce met on Tuesday at 10 o'clock. President Tyler Haswell in the chair and Secretary S. E. Eberstadt at the desk. Present were: Tyler Haswell, E. J. Fountain, J. N. Dulaney, Major L. L. McInnis, W. H. Cole, R. S. Webb Sr., J. D. Martin, Prof. R. O. Allen, F. L. Henderson, John A. Moore, J. Webb Howell, D. L. Wilson, Oak McKenzie, Travis B. Bryan, Sam B. Wilson and T. K. Lawrence. Absent—Lee J. Rountree, Judge J. T. Maloney, Judge H. O. Ferguson, A. M. Waldrop, M. E. Wallace, E. J. Jenkins, Dr. W. B. Bizzell, Mayor J. M. Lawrence and J. M. Gordon.

Secretary Eberstadt at the request of Mrs. S. C. Hoyle, president of the Bryan Woman's Club extended an invitation to the Board of Directors to attend the Style Show at the Elks hall on Thursday evening, March 31st stating that the funds derived from this entertainment will be used for the purchase of a lot upon which the Woman's Club expects to build a permanent home. The invitation was unanimously accepted.

Chairman J. D. Martin of the Agricultural Committee asked for further time on a report for the potato curing plant building proposition which was granted.

There were no reports from the Chairman of the City Development, Educational, Trade Extension, Legislative, Entertainment, Highway Committees.

Secretary Eberstadt reported one new member for the Finance and Membership committee: W. B. Cook of College.

In absence of Chairman Jno. M. Lawrence of the special committee on the College telephone matter, Major L. L. McInnis reported that auditors were at work on the Bryan Telephone Company's books and as soon as their report was available a meeting of all interested parties would be held and a satisfactory adjustment of the differences between College and the Telephone Company was hoped for.

R. S. Webb Sr., brought up the question of the water pressure at fires in Bryan stating that it was quite awhile after the alarm was turned in at the fire on Monday morning, before the pressure came on. The question was discussed generally and it developed that the pressure was turned on as soon as the alarm was received at the power house which was 17 minutes after the fire was discovered. City Manager E. E. McAdams went to the power house in person at 2:57 a.m. and remained until 7 o'clock. It also developed that the high pressure pumps cannot be turned on until all preparations are made or there would be damage to the mains. Another matter that developed was that of all the water that was used during the fire only reduced the water in the supply well one foot and it was further stated that if the new pump had been in Bryan would have extinguished the fire and saved many thousands dollars worth of property. The new pump furnishes its own power.

LET'S ALL GO A FISHING
(To the Bryan Eagle)

Bryan, Texas, March 28.

Spring time is here and the birds are singing, flowers are blooming and fish are biting, so let's all go a-fishing. What is the use of working? You can sell nothing you produce on the farm for enough to pay for the clothes you need or the food you must buy. Cotton is rotting in the yard, wheat is moulding in the elevator, wool is bulging in the warehouse, corn has been burning in the grate. The world is starving and naked, thousands of willing hands are unemployed for the want of raw material, and yet we are admonished to quit growing cotton and wheat, wool and corn, until the world can get the money to buy it.

About the only thing that is flowing freely is "advice to the farmers." The merchants and the bankers, the oil mill men and the cotton buyers, the travelling salesmen and the agricultural experts are all pouring out advice to the farmer about what to grow and what not to grow, what to buy and how to live, where to go and what to do. Now I suggest that we all, farmers and merchants, bankers and brokers, oil mill men and drummers, quit work and go on a strike. We farmers are in a humor to take your advice but suggest that you all join us in a sympathetic strike. And you had just as well, for when we grow just what we need to live at home and board at the same place and quit producing stuff for you to scramble over, there will be precious little business to do.

It is true that you might for a season devour your substance by preying on one another, dog eat dog, as the saying is, the banker lend money to the merchant, the merchant sell to the banker and to one another while the railroads grow up in grass for the want of drummers to travel or goods and farm products to haul. The laboring men may join us in the country and grow enough to eat and catch fish for a living, while the business world is consuming their surplus capital and coming to their senses as to what ails the world and how it may be cured.

Inadequate distribution and not over production is what ails the world. Now it is up to you bankers and business men to give us honest co-operation in setting up a marketing system that will put the coming surplus products of the farm, mine, forest and factory where they are needed for primary or final consumption. Why should not the farmer and the laboring man get together through their own organizations to price their own produce and labor as well as you through your commercial clubs, retail merchants unions and manufacturers associations and etc., get together to maintain your profits, collect your accounts and extend your trade?

Why should the sage advice of an eminent "Agriculturist," "Get it out of your head that anything but the supply and the world's ability to buy fixes the price of cotton," apply only to farmers and not to producers and distributors of other commercial commodities? The factories are overflowing, the stores are full of goods, the banks have lots of money and the world is unable to buy or borrow, and yet goods are not to be had for the asking or money to be borrowed for the begging at least to the farmer. Suppose we farmers take advantage of your necessities and by selling you our surplus eggs, butter, milk and potatoes at our own prices get a few dimes together with which to buy what little we need of your surplus goods at prices and on terms to suit ourselves. If you buck at our prices or terms or because of dull business are unable to pay up promptly within thirty days, we will organize a farmers retail producers association, put your name on our black list and report it to every farmer in this or surrounding counties. When you close up shop and come to the country to fish or forage you had better bring your credit card or a wallet well filled with coin or else you may go back home with the proverbial fisherman's luck.

Let the business world see to it that the products of the farm and the mine have a more perfect system of distribution and get it out of their heads that they have inalienable rights to clog the machinery of production in order to exploit the consumer through such a system of distribution as will squeeze out all the profits the traffic will bear. In spite of the sinister designs and determined efforts of certain commercial organizations and governmental institutions to keep the farmers in darkness we are getting wise to your business ethics and beg to propose an alternative proposition to that of the sage quoted above "Just get it out of your heads that any one else has the right to price the farmer's products but the farmer himself through his own organization."

A FARMER.

MOST DISASTROUS FIRE
IN BRYAN'S HISTORYSwancoat-Street Business Building and Dansby
Residences Burned at Early Hour Monday
Morning—Loss About $125,000.

The most disastrous fire in the history of Bryan occurred this (Monday) morning at 2:40 o'clock leaving in its wake the destruction of a large business building and three residences, the loss being about $125,000 with partial insurance. The last big fire was two years ago in April, 1919, when the Cotton Compress warehouse fire took place with a loss of more than $50,000. The fire was discovered under the steps at the Butler Cafe at 2:40 by Night Watchman T. H. Franklin and the alarm was turned in by Robert Armstrong. The siren sounded amid the roar of the Easter tempest and the flames illumined the lowering clouds that had been giving forth a down-pour for several hours. The fragments of burning timbers were hurled throughout the southeastern part of the town and had it not been for the rain no doubt a number of additional fires would have resulted. The water pressure connection was not on and City Manager E. E. McAdams rushed to the power house and at 3:57 answering the call of Chief C. E. Jenkins turned on the 750 pound pressure underwriters tank. City Manager McAdams remained at the power plant until 7 a. m. giving personal direction to the water power. The fire boys did excellent work with about 2,500 feet of hose at their disposal and two sections were destroyed under the water pressure directed by City Manager McAdams. The need of more new fire hose is fully demonstrated.

The portion of the building owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Swancoat, of Bryan, and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Street, of Houston, occupied by Butler Cafe, Waldrop & Co.'s tailorshop, the Groginsky barbershop and the offices of Attorneys Lamar Bethea and Charles B. Hudson and the Bryan Cotton Exchange were practically a total loss and the portion occupied by A. M. Waldrop & Co., for general furnishings and Gibbs & Hare for shoes and men's furnishings was a partial loss. The loss is about $40,000 men's furnishings was a partial loss. The building will be repaired at once as it is one of the most valuable pieces of the conflagration was that a short time after the flames in the Swancoat-Street building on Main street was under way the handsome $25,000 residence of Marshall Dansby caught fire and was destroyed with its contents and the homes occupied by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fulgham and Mr. and Mrs. Will Lewis were burned from this building. The fire destroyed the automobile and garage of Mr. Dansby were destroyed by the fire. Mr. Dansby had gone down town to the fire and decided to walk instead of using his automobile and while gone the fire destroyed his property. The cause of the Dansby fire is still a mystery as the wind threw the burning fire-brands far to the southeast of this section.

The cafe of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Butler in which the fire started is a total wreck including the piano of Mrs. Butler. Mrs. Butler came in on the morning southbound H. & T. C. passenger train while the fire was in progress. The loss of the Butler Cafe was $5,000 with $3,500 insurance. Gibbs & Hare, high class shoes and gents' furnishing goods, on the corner of Main and 26th Street, was located in a part of the Swancoat-Street building in fire proof walls and the stock was only injured by heat and water and at 9 o'clock this morning was still being flooded from the water from above. Mr. W. F. Gibbs states that he saved much of the goods, his stock consisting of about $15,000 and insurance of $7,500. He will at once open his business and will make an announcement in a day or two.

A. M. Waldrop & Co. occupied the center of the Swancoat-Street building down stairs fronting on Main and 26th with a stock of about $40,000 of the best goods in men's furnishing and clothing money could buy in northern and eastern markets. Waldrop & Co. has about $30,000 insurance. At an early hour the goods were being moved to the Wagner building on 26th street in front of James Drug Store where adjustments will be made with the insurance company and business will be resumed while repairs are being made on the former building. Mr. Waldrop states that a sale of the old stock will take place as soon as possible and the new stock will be placed in the old headquarters as soon as it can be and will be the best money can purchase. This firm has been in business in Bryan for twenty-five years and this is the first fire loss in its history.

Next door west of the Butler Cafe thankful for a very narrow escape. The barbershop of J. Groginsky which was under the management of Mr. J. O. Tucker. This was a total loss of about $1,000 with no insurance. Mr. Groginsky had this and the Waldrop & Co. tailorshop, also a total loss, leased for these purposes.

Upstairs were the law offices of Attorney Lamar Bethea and Chas. B. Hudson and the office of the Cotton Exchange. These were a total loss including the valuable libraries of Messrs. Bethea and Hudson, which were partially covered by insurance. The Cotton Exchange office was totally destroyed.

The grocery store and market of David Reid received some water which came through the wall from the continuing streams the gallant fire boys poured into the roaring flames that lit up the entire town. Mr. Reid figures his damage very little and is

FARMERS REVIVE
THEIR OLD-TIME NAME

(By H. H. (Jinx) Tucker in Waco News Tribune)

The name "Wildcats" recently adopted at A. M. college has been done away with. At a recent meeting of the old-timers of the school among whom were some of the greatest athletic stars the school has ever produced, it was decided that the name "Farmers" around which are built many tender memories and traditions should be used forever in referring to the various A. & M. teams. The name "Argies" by which nearly all A. & M. colleges are known, was also discarded.

R. H. Ramsey, A. and M. heavy-weight wrestler, who went to Des Moines last week as the guest of the University of Oklahoma matmen, was defeated in the finals of the Missouri Valley meet by Polly Wallace of Ames, all-American center. The latter won the match on a decision by the referee, neither getting a fall, although the Ames athlete averaged a fall according to the University of Oklahoma coach, by managing to get his foot off the mat when he was about to be pinned with a head and arm chancery.

Remember the real slogan: "Ruv it in Bryan."

LET'S ALL GO A FISHING

(To the Bryan Eagle)

Bryan, Texas, March 28.
Spring time is here and the birds are singing, flowers are blooming and fish are biting, so let's all go a-fishing. What is the use of working? You can sell nothing you produce on the farm for enough to pay for the clothes you need or the food you must buy. Cotton is rotting in the yard, wheat is moulding in the elevator, wool is bulging in the warehouse, corn has been burning in the grate. The world is starving and naked, thousands of willing hands are unemployed for the want of raw material, and yet we are admonished to quit growing cotton and wheat, wool and corn, until the world can get the money to buy it.

About the only thing that is flowing freely is "advice to the farmers." The merchants and the bankers, the oil mill men and the cotton buyers, the travelling salesmen and the agricultural experts are all pouring out advice to the farmer about what to grow and what not to grow, what to buy and how to live, where to go and what to do. Now I suggest that we, all farmers and merchants, bankers and brokers, oil mill men and drummers, quit work and go on a strike. We farmers are in a humor to take your advice but suggest that you all join us in a sympathetic strike. And you had just as well, for when we grow just what we need to live at home and board at the same place and quit producing stuff for you to scramble over, there will be precious little business to do.

It is true that you might for a season devour your substance by preying on one another, dog eat dog, as the saying is, the banker lend money to the merchant, the merchant sell to the banker and to one another while the railroads grow up in grass for the want of drummers to travel or goods and farm products to haul. The laboring men may join us in the country and grow enough to eat and catch fish for a living, while the business world is consuming their surplus capital and coming to their senses as to what ails the world and how it may be cured.

Inadequate distribution and not over production is what ails the world. Now it is up to you bankers and business men to give us honest co-operation in setting up a marketing system that will put the coming surplus products of the farm, mine, forest and factory where they are needed for primary or final consumption. Why should not the farmer and the laboring man get together through their own organizations to price their own produce and labor as well as you through your commercial clubs, retail merchants unions and manufacturers associations and etc., get together to maintain your profits, collect your accounts and extend your trade?

Why should the sage advice of an eminent "Agriculturist," "Get it out of your head that anything but the supply and the world's ability to buy fixes the price of cotton," apply only to farmers and not to producers and distributors of other commercial commodities? The factories are overflowing, the stores are full of goods, the banks have lots of money and the world is unable to buy or borrow, and yet goods are not to be had for the asking or money borrowed for the begging at least to the farmer. Suppose we farmers take advantage of your necessities and by selling you our surplus eggs, buttermilk and potatoes at our own prices get a few dollars together with which to buy what little we need of your surplus goods at prices and on terms to suit ourselves. If you back at our prices or terms or because of dull business are unable to pay up promptly within thirty days, we will organize a farmers retail producers association, put your name on our black list and report it to every farmer in this or surrounding counties. When you close up shop and come to the country to fish or forage you had better bring your credit card or a wallet well filled with coin or else you may go back home with the proverbial fisherman's luck.

Let the business world see to it that the products of the farm and the mine have a more perfect system of distribution and get it out of their heads that they have inalienable rights to clog the machinery of production in order to exploit the consumer through such a system of distribution as will squeeze out all the profits the traffic will bear. In spite of the sinister designs and determined efforts of certain commercial organizations and governmental institutions to keep the farmers in darkness we are getting wise to your business ethics and beg to propose an alternative proposition to that of the sage quoted above "Just get it out of your heads that any one else has the right to price the farmer's products but the farmer himself through his own organization."

A FARMER.

Mrs. Arthur B. Moore of Austin is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. N. Cole and family on east 24th street.

MOST DISASTROUS FIRE IN BRYAN'S HISTORY

Swancoat-Street Business Building and Dansby Residences Burned at Early Hour Monday Morning—Loss About $125,000.

The most disastrous fire in the history of Bryan occurred this (Monday) morning at 2:40 o'clock leaving in its wake the destruction of a large business building and three residences, the loss being about $125,000 with partial insurance. The last big fire was two years ago in April, 1919, when the Cotton Compress warehouse fire took place with a loss of more than $50,000. The fire was discovered under the steps at the Butler Cafe at 2:40 by Night Watchman T. H. Franklin and the alarm was turned in by Robert Armstrong. The siren sounded amid the roar of the Easter tempest and the flames illumined the lowering clouds that had been giving forth a down-pour for several hours. The fragments of burning timbers were hurled throughout the southeastern part of the town and had it not been for the rain no doubt a number of additional fires would have resulted. The water pressure connection was not on and City Manager E. B. McAdams rushed to the power house and at 3:57 answering the call of Chief C. E. Jenkins turned on the 750 pound pressure underwriters tank. City Manager McAdams remained at the power plant until 7 a. m. giving personal direction to the water power. The fire boys did excellent work with about 2,500 feet of hose at their disposal and two sections were destroyed under the water pressure directed by City Manager McAdams. The need of more new fire hose is fully demonstrated.

The portion of the building owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Swancoat, of Bryan, and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Street, of Houston, occupied by Butler Cafe, Waldrop & Co.'s tailorshop, the Groginsky barbershop and the offices of Attorneys Lamar Bethea and Charles B. Hudson and the Bryan Cotton Exchange were practically a total loss and the portion occupied by A. M. Waldrop & Co. for general furnishings and Gibbs & Hare for shoes and men's furnishings was a partial loss. The loss is about $40,000 men's furnishings was a partial loss. The building will be repaired at once as it is one of the most valuable pieces of business property in Bryan.

One of the strange features of the conflagration was that a short time after the flames in the Swancoat-Street building on Main street was under way the handsome $25,000 residence of Marshall Dansby caught fire and was destroyed with its contents and the homes occupied by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fulgham and Mr. and Mrs. Will Lewis were burned from this building. The fire destroyed the automobile and garage of Mr. Dansby and he decided to walk instead of using his automobile and while gone the fire destroyed his property. The cause of the Dansby fire is still a mystery as the wind threw the burning fire-brands far to the southeast of this section.

The cafe of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Butler in which the fire started is a total wreck including the piano of Mrs. Butler. Mrs. Butler came in on the morning southbound H. & T. C. passenger train while the fire was in progress. The loss of the Butler Cafe was $5,000 with $3,500 insurance. Gibbs & Hare, high class shoes and gents' furnishings goods, on the corner of Main and 26th street, was located in a part of the Swancoat-Street building in fire proof walls and the stock was only injured by heat and water and at 9 o'clock this morning was still being flooded from the water from above. Mr. W. F. Gibbs states that he saved much of the goods, his stock consisting of about $15,000 and insurance of $7,500. He will at once open his business and will make an announcement in a day or two.

A. M. Waldrop & Co. occupied the center of the Swancoat-Street building down stairs fronting on Main and 26th with a stock of about $40,000 of the best goods in men's furnishing and clothing money could buy in northern and eastern markets. Waldrop & Co. has about $30,000 insurance. At an early hour the goods were being moved to the Wagner building on 26th street in front of James Drug Store where adjustments will be made with the insurance company and business will be resumed while repairs are being made on the former building. Mr. Waldrop states that a sale of the old stock will take place as soon as possible and the new stock will be placed in the old headquarters as soon as it can be and will be the best money can purchase. This firm has been in business in Bryan for twenty-five years and this is the first fire loss in its history.

Next door west of the Butler Cafe thankful for a very narrow escape. The barbershop of J. Groginsky which was under the management of Mr. J. O. Tucker. This was a total loss of about $1,000 with no insurance. Mr. Groginsky had this and the Waldrop & Co. tailorshop, also a total loss, leased for these purposes.

Upstairs were the law offices of Attorney Lamar Bethea and Chas. B. Hudson and the office of the Cotton Exchange. These were a total loss including the valuable libraries of Messrs. Bethea and Hudson, which were partially covered by insurance. The Cotton Exchange office was totally destroyed.

The grocery store and market of David Reid received some water which came through the wall from the continuous streams the gallant fire boys poured into the roaring flames that lit up the entire town. Mr. Reid figures his damage very little and is

BRAZOS COUNTY DE-SIRES FARM BUREAU

The committee appointed at the mass meeting of Brazos County farmers held last Saturday to take up the question of the organization of Farm Bureaus is as follows: C. W. Hedke, Kurtin; Mhas. Merka, Smentana; W. E. Graham, Wellborn; Jim Tobias, Steep Hollow; Jordan Lawler, Bryan; Joe Sample, Tabor; Fletcher Poole, Millican. The committee will meet in Bryan next Saturday, April 2, at 2:30 o'clock to discuss and organize for an active campaign in Brazos County for membership. It is the purpose of the committee if it is thought desirable to form the organization to have a representative of the State Farm Bureau at Dallas to come here and make a tour of the county at an early date.

FARMERS REVIVE THEIR OLD-TIME NAME

(By H. H. (Jinx) Tucker in Waco News Tribune)
The name "Wildcats" recently adopted at A. and M. college has been done away with. At a recent meeting of the old-timers of the school among whom were some of the greatest athletes stars the school has ever produced, it was decided that the name "Farmers" around which are built many tender memories and traditions should be used forever in referring to the various A. & M. teams. The name "Aggies" by which nearly all A. & M. colleges are known, was also discarded.

R. H. Ramsey, A. and M. heavyweight wrestler, who went to Des Moines last week as the guest of the University of Oklahoma matmen, was defeated in the finals of the Missouri Valley meet by Polly Wallace of Ames, all-American center. The latter won the match on a decision by a referee, neither getting a fall, although the Ames athlete averted a fall according to the University of Oklahoma coach, by managing to get his foot off the mat when he was about to be pinned with a head and arm chancery.

Remember the real slogan: "Run it to Bryan."

Club Notes and Farm News by County Agent C. L. Beason

The boys' and girls' club emblem, the four leaf clover, represents the principles of scientific farming, rotations of crops, soil building, large production and greater profit on less acreage, and the science, art and business of home making.

The four H's represent the equal training of the head, heart, hand and health of every child, and his education in his home for his home and country.

The head should be trained to: (a) Think, (b) Plan, (c) Reason. The heart should be trained to: (a) Be loyal, (b) Be kind, (c) Be true, (d) Be sympathetic.

The hands should be trained to: (a) Be useful, (b) Be helpful, (c) Be skillful.

The health should be trained to: (a) Resist disease, (b) Enjoy life, (c) Make for efficiency.

Elmer Elliott of the Harris school is progressing nicely in his club work. His pig 30 days ago weighed 57 pounds. It now weighs 130, a little over two pounds gain per day.

As an encouragement to diversified farming the First National Bank, Guaranty State Bank, and First State Bank of Stamford have entered into an agreement to finance twenty-five boys in the "baby beef club" movement in that trade territory. Roger Q. Astin thinks that while production of cotton is unprofitable and while feed stuff will, likely, be made in abundance it would be good business to interest a number of our Brazos county club boys in raising a number of pure bred heifers, which he thinks, could be purchased at most reasonable prices. County Agent Beason thinks he could find some Brazos county boys who would take keen interest in such a proposition.

The following definition of a county agent recently won a prize in a North Carolina contest, it is reported: "A county agent is a farmer trained to serve his rural people as an apostle of the high ideals of living, as a teacher of the progressive principles of the business, the industry and the profession of farming, and as promoter of whatever will make for the welfare of the individuals, communities and state."

WEST TEXAS A. & M. COLLEGE BILL WAS PASSED ILLEGALLY

(Special to the Eagle)

Austin, Texas, March 28.—Governor Neff was under advisement the signing or vetoing of the $1,350,000 appropriation to purchase additional land for the State University; the $4,000,000 Rural Aid bill; the $3,000,000 Common School Fund bill and the West Texas A. & M. College for boys and girls carrying a $50,000 appropriation for land. As many as three legislators who voted against the West Texas A. & M. measure which passed in the last hours of the 37th session have written Governor Neff attacking legality of the measure even should the governor sign it inasmuch as it was finally passed in the house 45 minutes after 12 o'clock noon on Saturday the hour set for adjournment (with hands of the house clock set back).

As for the West Texas A. and M. measure, however, things look bad. The governor gave out the information Thursday that he had received protests on the bill based on the charge of illegality of passage, but refused to make any comment himself, or make any expression which might be construed to be his opinion in the matter. He was careful to state, however, and this point is vitally at interest in the matter—that when he was speaker of the house when time for adjournment came he adjourned the house on the strike of the hour and never permitted the clock's hands to be turned back. He even called attention to the fact that on one occasion 17 years ago, H. B. Terrell, who died in San Antonio this week, then a member of the legislature and accredited as Governor Neff's very close friend literally poked a bill in his face at the hour of adjournment of the house begging him to sign it, but was refused on the grounds the minute of adjournment—the "moment," as the governor expressed it—hand passed.

Four members of the legislature were arrested on the train on their way home after 12 o'clock (Saturday, March 12) the date of sine die adjournment and brought into the House and forced to make a quorum to pass the West Texas A. & M. bill. This law was voted down in the democratic convention at Fort Worth last August by a vote of 538 to 329, a majority of 201 votes against the measure. It was defeated in the subcommittee, the general committee and the state convention. On a test vote on Friday, March 11 the bill was defeated in the House by a vote of 52 to 46 against the free conference committee report but Speaker Thomas recognized a motion to recess and declared it carried and the next day the question was reconsidered and carried after the time of sine die adjournment (12 o'clock) had passed.

The Minimum Wage Law
It would not be a surprise in capital circles to see the governor approve the Parr bill repealing the old minimum wage law and veto the Miller-Tier measure passed at the thirty-seventh session. Strong condemnation of the new law has been voiced to the governor from labor circles, and especially antagonistic to it are members of the old Industrial Welfare commission of which former Labor Commissioner Jennings was a member. Jennings takes the position that so many exceptions to application of the law are made in the new measure that it is as good as useless for the purposes its proponents originally urged its enactment.

John W. Stewart of Harvey was in the city this morning and went to Houston by the afternoon train on a short business visit.

DEATH OF MR. WARD REGRETTED IN BRYAN

Friends of the family in Bryan regret to learn of the sad death of Mr. S. J. Ward, at his ranch home near Waco on Friday morning from heart disease. The funeral was conducted at his old home in Marlin on Saturday afternoon, with interment in the family burying ground. Deceased was a brother of Mrs. J. Mr. Mooring and Ward Mooring also went up to Marlin to attend the funeral and have returned to Bryan. Mrs. Mooring remained for a visit with the family.

MANY BRAZOS COUNTY FARMERS ARE MOVING FOR FARM BUREAU

A mass meeting of farmers of Brazos county was held in the district court room Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. In the absence of President E. U. Peters of the Brazos County United Cotton Growers Association, County Agent C. L. Beason called the meeting to order and was elected temporary chairman and upon motion Prof. J. L. Cobb of Tabor was elected secretary.

Prof. A. W. Kinnard stated that as the United Cotton Growers Association had been merged into the Farm Federation Bureau and all members of that organization were automatically members of the Farm Bureau it was now an open meeting for the full discussion of the future plans.

Chairman Beason introduced Col. Clarence Ousley, now connected with the Farm Bureau, as the principal speaker and he gave many interesting facts regarding the problems now confronting the farmers and especially the cotton farmers of Brazos county, Texas, and the South. Colonel Ousley stated that there was now a surplus of 8,000,000 bales of cotton on hand with no demand for purchase and that it was only about four months until cotton picking time. He said that the 1920 crops was about 13,100,000 and one of the greatest of country and a like crop of cotton now with the ports of Europe practically closed against our cotton the surplus would be greater than ever unless there was a curtailment of cotton and more food and feed crops planted throughout Texas—which has produced 4,000,000 bales of cotton the past year. Colonel Ousley urged the farmers to organize for self-preservation for the future.

Director T. O. Walton, of the Extension Service of A. & M. College was introduced and stated that it was the agreement of all the farmers in Texas that they would merge their interests in the Farm Bureau and make one united effort to bring about some practical results along the lines of better marketing and better production. Mr. Walton pledged his best efforts to aid the organization in Brazos county if the farmers so desired.

At the suggestion of Jordan Lawler after endorsing the movement Sam Cavitt of Edge, who was an officer in the old organization was called to the chair. Mr. Cavitt said he hoped the right course would be pursued and pledged his support. The question of organizing Farm Bureaus in Brazos county was discussed by M. B. Easters, of Kurten; J. L. Cobb, of Tabor; Jess Cook, of Steep Hollow; Charles Merka, A. W. Buchanan, Jordan Lawler, W. E. Graham and others. Everyone speaking favored an organization.

Mr. Jess Cook made quite a strong speech in favor of organization of Farm Bureaus in every community in the county as did Mr. Cavitt and others. It developed during a conversation between Colonel Ousley and Mr. J. B. Beers, cotton expert of A. and M. College, that October futures in New York were quoted at 12.50 which was equivalent to about 11.50 in Bryan and that the present cotton situation was not very bright with the high cost of labor and all products needed to produce the 1921 cotton crops.

It was unanimously agreed that Brazos county should go into the Farm Bureau organization and that a state organizer would be invited to make a campaign here at an early date. The following steering committee was appointed by Chairman Cavitt: C. W. Hedke, W. E. Graham, Jim Tobias, Jordan Lawler, Fletcher Pool and Joe Sample.

Messrs. Cavitt, Beason and Kinnard expressed the belief that with the newspaper publicity meetings could be arranged in every community in Brazos county in the next few weeks, and after the meeting adjourned the committee held a conference looking toward that end and the Bryan Eagle will publish the decision of the committee when it has been prepared.

MR. GROGINSKY'S LOSS.

There was an insurance of $1,950 on the fixtures. The shop was next door to Butler's Cafe where the fire originated, hence was a total loss. The Eagle trusts all the fire losses will be adjusted at an early date as usual.

HARVEY NEWS ITEMS

Harvey, March 30.—Well for once in years we had a warm pleasant Easter Sunday, but if the other churches were no better represented than our own "Bright Light" on that lovely day then its beauty and warmth was wasted. We really can't understand the utter indifference of the members of that church and Sunday School: Its true we had no services except the usual Sunday School exercises but the attendance was unusually small and late, however the few who were there gave an Easter offering of several dollars, two-thirds of which will be given to the Near East Relief.

Mrs. Ardella Jones spent Easter with her home folks. The little children of the western part of Harvey enjoyed an Easter egg hunt Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. P. Jones.

O. A. Jones has moved back from College and is again living at his father's old homestead. We are glad to welcome them in our midst again. Geo. Davidson spent Easter at home and brought with him Junius Estill of Wharton. By the way, Junius was one of the boys who received honorable mention at the Christmas term at A. and M. as not getting below B in any study.

We had a heavy rain followed by a strong norther Sunday night, but owing to the ground being so wet the cold of last night did but little or no harm to young plants and fruit. We look forward now to a heavy peach and berry crop.

Mrs. J. C. Davidson is distressed over a piece of news in the "Houston Sunday Post" to the effect that Captain Emmet Kilpatrick of Uniontown, Alabama, a Red Cross officer in Soviet army of Russia had been taken prisoner and without any formal trial was condemned to twenty years imprisonment and hard labor in retaliation for alleged condemnation of Russian communists in United States. Emmet Kilpatrick, if it is the same, is a cousin of Mrs. Davidson and is the son of Jno. Y. Kilpatrick of Camden, Alabama, one of the most noted criminal lawyer in Alabama and was a captain in the Civil War. Emmet was quite a linguist as he could speak three different languages and read and write five or six more.

WENT TO STEEP HOLLOW

County Agent C. L. Beason and Secretary S. E. Eberstadt went to Steep Hollow on Friday afternoon to visit the club boys and participated in Easter festivities. The boys are organizing in all the communities in Brazos county and the Eagle will be glad to aid Mr. Beason in every way possible in this good work.

Mrs. W. S. Stuart went to Corsicana today for a visit with relatives and friends.

Springfield Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. 'I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person.' 'Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night. I was so nervous and cross. My husband, which he did. It strengthened me. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it.'"

FARMERS NOW ABLE TO MARKET BY CO-OPERATIVE METHODS

(By Associated Press)

Austin, Texas, March 29.—The supreme efforts of the farmers of Texas to find a market for their crops under guidance of legislature presented them by the Thirty-seventh legislature was put under way Monday. It was the districting of Texas into five divisions by the Texas Farm Bureau to secure contracts with farmers under the Shaprio marketing law for holding of 500,000 bales of cotton to the district and sale thereof by the bureau. First steps to secure farmers' contract were taken out of Temple, Texas, where L. F. McKay of Waco, publicity director for the bureau, began work Monday morning.

This information was told Governor Pat M. Neff today by E. F. Shropshire, managing director of the cotton division of the Texas Farm Bureau who was a visitor to the State House. Asked about other crops of the state, Mr. Shropshire said: "Cotton, wool and tomato growers are organizing now for the effort to obtain markets under the Shaprio plan. We will get to the rice fields soon, but the rice farmers of Southern Texas can advance the time material if they will begin at once to organize and be ready for us when we there."

The Shaprio plan, so called, because it is patterned after the Shaprio cooperative marketing association law in California, was sponsored by Representatives John Davis of Dallas, Rountree of Brazos, Williams of McLennan and Stevenson of Victoria in the house of the Thirty-seventh legislature and passed both branches almost without opposition. It has already become a law with the signature of Governor Neff.

The Shaprio plan permits organization of non-profit, co-operative marketing associations by farmers of the state in the nature of a pool of their products to be sold by the association usually under contracts with the farmer members of from five to seven years duration. Heavy penalties are imposed upon farmers who break their contracts and refuse to pool as long as the stipulated period. Judging for the operation of the law in California, much is to be expected from its workings in Texas, declared the Farm Bureau director today. The co-operative marketing law was one of the few constructive measures that finally passed the 37th legislature.

REGARDING A BRYAN POTATO CURING PLANT

County Agent C. L. Beason is in receipt of the following letter from County Agent George A. Adams, of Longview dated March 25: "I have your letter of 17th and am glad to welcome you back into the ranks again. The first heard from you in some time. As to our sweet potato industry: We will have about 4,000 acres in the roots this season and they yield from 75 bushels to the acre under negro cultivation to 300 and even more under the methods used by our best and most experienced growers. There are five curing houses in the county used for curing by other than growers. They run from 6,000 to 20,000 bushels. Practically all the extensive growers have their own houses most of which do not run over 6,000 bushels. The largest farmer owned house is that of Rogers Lacy. Its capacity is 10,000 and it is an A. & M. plan. Mr. Lacy considers it the best in the county and could not be changed from the government plan at all. J. A. Murphy is another of larger growers. He is near Kilgore, has a Bradley house but would not build anything but government plan if he had to build again. Houses cost various prices. Walter Cunyus of this place has a 2,500 house, government plan that cost him $450. He built it himself. J. F. Holt of Kilgore built his house for 6,000 bushels using best of workmen and material. It cost him $3,800. You see I could not say what a house will cost."

BUY WHAT YOU NEED NOW

It's the "Loosening Up" not the "Holding On" which will make our country prosperous

BUSINESS AS USUAL

"Business as usual" was one of the great "war-winning" slogans. It was vital that the wheels of business kept revolving so that a prosperous country could furnish funds and supplies to maintain our boys overseas in comfort and in determined spirit.

"Business as usual" is just as vital today, that our great army of workers in the mines, in the shops, in the factories, in the foundries, in the mills and on the farms may have profitable employment at livable wages.

When you stop buying you create stagnacy that develops over-production. Overproduction halts industry, causes unemployment and hard times. Neither autocrat nor artisan, magnate or mechanic, employer, or wage-earner, can afford to stop buying.

A portion of every dollar spent by the worker, by you and I, eventually goes to replenish the fuel supply needed by manufacturers to run their plants. The more orders—the more work. More work—more money and again prosperity is near. Buy what you need now and keep the call for goods coming. Indirectly you benefit as do we all.

Regulate Your Income

Thrift is not self-denial of the enjoyments of life.

Thrift is the regulation of our income in such a manner that you can participate in the good things of life now and in the future by sensible distribution of spending and saving.

During the days of high wages and high prices, when everyone spent freely and indulged in pleasures and conveniences that they never could afford before, the savings deposited in the banks of the country increased tremendously—particularly among wage earners. There was a chance for Thrift and Good Living.

But if buying stops, production stops, work becomes scarce, wages come down, thousands are unemployed and the chance for saving, thrift, or the purchase of enjoyments and extra comfort become rare.

When you stop buying, you put a binder on the bankroll—on mine, on the man who buys from me, on the things you are paid to make, and the boss who pays you to make them.

Who's the Goat?—You are eventually.
